At various stands, a broad range of German exhibitors invite you to learn more about their projects, initiatives and businesses to inform you and other specialists in the respective fields about their activities and work. Explore our diverse programme of panel discussions, talks and workshops. We will make the German Pavilion a hive of activity and invite you to discuss the latest project outcomes and focus topics with us.

Opening reception at the German Pavilion

22 May 2018
18.00 to 19.00

Be our guest and meet our exhibitors and their experts on carbon markets and emissions trading, green and climate finance as well as sustainable energy finance in developing countries and emerging economies. Representatives from BMU and BMZ will also be attending the opening reception. A light snack will be served.

Federal Ministry
for the Environment, Nature Conservation and Nuclear Safety

The Federal Ministry for the Environment, Nature Conservation and Nuclear Safety (BMU) is responsible for a range of government policies which are reflected in the name of the ministry itself. For more than 30 years, the Ministry has worked to protect the public from environmental toxins and radiation and establish an intelligent and efficient use of raw materials; it has advanced climate action and promoted a use of natural resources that conserves biodiversity and secures habitats. BMU is responsible within the German government for climate policy on the national, European and international levels. Its activities range widely from domestic climate policy to the international climate negotiations under the UNFCCC. Germany is taking an active role in realizing the agreed commitments by enhancing its own activities and supporting other parties in their efforts to mitigate and adapt to the impacts of climate change.

Federal Ministry
for Economic Cooperation and Development

The Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development (BMZ) is responsible for the German development cooperation implemented by GIZ and KfW, as well as by international organizations, partnering with private sector and civil society organizations. BMZ accounts for approximately 90 per cent of Germany's international climate finance. It is supporting action in climate change mitigation and adaptation through bilateral programs in over 60 partner countries to jointly achieve the goals of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the Paris Agreement, recognizing that climate change is jeopardizing sustainable development. To trigger transformational investments, BMZ supports the creation of enabling environments and the set-up of innovative financial instruments that help to mobilize the private sector for climate action. In addition to bilateral programs, Germany has launched and supported a number of major global initiatives. The "Nationally Determined Contributions (NDC) Partnership" promotes coordination and exchange at national and international level to improve cooperation between the different stakeholders to facilitate the implementation of climate goals that partner countries have set themselves in their NDCs. The InsuResilience Global Partnership, for which Germany partners up with other countries, civil society, the insurance industry and development banks, seeks to strengthen the resilience of developing countries and protect the lives and livelihoods of poor and vulnerable people against the impacts of disasters. Together with others, Germany also supports the Africa Renewable Energy Initiative (AREI) which is set to achieve at least 10 GW of new and additional renewable energy generation capacity by 2020, and at least 300 GW by 2030.
